Pastor's Corner

Dear Parishioners,

The celebration of Christ the King Sunday marks the end of the Church's liturgical year. It serves to remind us that all time is a gift of God and that His Kingdom is not one of human making but one established by the Lord himself as a spiritual realm ruled by the Spirit in love and service to God and his people. We proclaim Christ as our King and the ruler of our hearts as we live under the banner of his Gospel. It also means that next week we will need our new Sunday missals as we begin again the Church's liturgical cycle with the season of Advent.

On Thursday Dec. 6th we will celebrate Mass at 11am especially for the benefit of our senior parishioners who wish to receive the Sacrament of the Anointing of the Sick. It's the feast of St. Nicholas, the Bishop who is the special patron of gift giving, and who inspires us to be generous with the poor and needy, often related to the practice of providing hampers during the Advent season. All those who are burdened with frailty, chronic health challenges, illness or advanced age, are welcome to receive this sacramental anointing.

And for use in your home we've included an insert in this weekend's bulletin with the prayers and blessings for your Advent wreath, crib scene, and Christmas tree. The use of these symbols can so easily provide a teaching moment for our children and a reminder for ourselves of the true meaning and value of the Christmas feast.

Have a good week,

Fr. Dion

"Jesus didn't save us with an idea, with an intellectual program, no. He saved us with his flesh, with the concreteness of the flesh." ~ POPE FRANCIS

GOSPEL: John 18:33-37

Father Thomas Rosica, CSB - Biblical Reflection for Solemnity of Christ the King Nov 18 2009 zenit.org

The liturgical year ends with the feast of Christ the King. This day encourages us to reflect on Christ's kingship in the middle, or usually the very beginning of the holiday season. Christ the King may be a difficult theme for some of us to truly reflect on and understand because the very idea of kingship could seem alien or archaic - we might have trouble imagining what kingship might mean in our context, even if we sing the hymns with gusto! And today, our lectionary returns us to the story we heard months ago, on Good Friday, the story of Jesus' passion according to John.

In John's poignant trial scene of Pilate and Jesus, Pilate asks Jesus, "Are you the king of the Jews?" (Jn 18:33) And typically, Jesus' response is another question: "Do you ask this on your own or did others tell you about me?" (v.34). It's a question about Jesus' identity and as such it calls to mind another question about Jesus' identity asked in the gospels. In Mark, as Jesus and his disciples walk near Caesarea Philippi, in a region dominated by Roman imperial power and imagery, Jesus asked his disciples "Who do people say that I am?" Then he asked, "But who do you say that I am?" These questions were the occasion for Peter's brash confession, "You are the Christ."

Now, in a direct confrontation with the agent of imperial power, the question of Jesus' identity is raised again. "Are you the king of the Jews?" Jesus, and we, suspect that Pilate is not asking the question honestly. He does not know, or care who Jesus is. In fact, he seems most interested in finding some way to avoid responsibility for what is taking place. And Jesus seems willing to help Pilate avoid what is to come. As the gospel of John tells the story, Pilate will make every effort to avoid condemning Jesus to death. He moves back and forth between Jesus and the other players in the drama—the crowd that according to John seeks Jesus' death. He offers to free Jesus, but the crowd will have none of it. Then he stages a mock ritual of coronation with the purple robe and the crown of thorns. He asks Jesus again about his identity, "Where do you come from?" When Jesus doesn't answer, Pilate tells him that he has power to release him and power to crucify him. Jesus points out that whatever power Pilate has derives not from Rome, but ultimately from God. Finally, Pilate presents Jesus to the crowd and declares, "Here is your King!" Jesus is then crucified under the inscription, King of the Jews, and Pilate leaves the inscription on the cross after Jesus' body is removed.

"Here is your king!" These are the words Pilate used when presenting Jesus to the crowd. The crowd responded, "Crucify him!" Pilate's declaration, the exchange between Pilate and Jesus, the purple robe, the crown of thorns, the crowd's response, all of it presents us with the imagery and symbolic power of kingship. What does Christ's kingship mean for us in the twenty-first century? What is our response when Pilate says to us, "Here is your King!"

The exchange between Pilate and Jesus is about kingship. Jesus responds to Pilate, "my kingdom is not from this world" (v.36). It's easy for us to side with Jesus, to confess him as King and to realize that his kingship was something quite different than either the Roman or the Jewish leadership understood by the term. We get that. We may not have any trouble proclaiming Christ's kingship... but the question is do we live as if we believed that Christ is our King? Does our allegiance to him transcend every other allegiance or commitment or connection? The problem for all of us is that although we pray the words, "Thy Kingdom come" we don't really mean it.

The problem is that we suffer from the same malady that plagued Pilate. Throughout his dealings with Jesus in this gospel, Pilate reveals himself as deeply cynical. One can't read any of his statements as coming from his heart, being sincere. He is always looking for ways to negotiate through the situation in order to preserve his power and avoid difficult decisions. He mocks Jesus and the crowd when he presents Jesus to them and says, "Here is your King!"

It is that temptation that confronts us today, every day. The temptation to confess with our lips, but deny with our lives that Christ is King. Let us each pray that the Spirit of truth will reveal our hearts to us; let us be "sober-minded" to see what we our lives we have elevated to kingship in place of Jesus - our finances? our jobs? our time? our moral or religious practices? even our own righteousness? It is hard for us not to succumb. But in that image of a scorned and mocked Christ clad in Rome's imperial purple with a crown of thorns, in that image Pilate was using for his own purposes, to rile the crowd, to deflect his responsibility, in that image - there was one who was pure, one who was sincere. It was Jesus Christ, who went from there to the cross, died and was raised, Jesus Christ our King who demands our allegiance, our truth, our all.

ST. JOHN PAUL (THE GREAT)'S THEOLOGY OF THE BODY

Using the three "words" of Christ on marriage, St. Pope John Paul (The Great) reveals our true human nature, in the image and likeness of God, as a "communion of persons, in the sincere gift of self," giving us the authentic meaning of our humanity now and in eternal life. He teaches us that holiness is intimately connected with human nature. He reveals how the Sacraments, particularly the Eucharist, restore and redeem human nature. Discover what this tells us about life now on earth and Eternal Life with God.
